Australia, on 28 November 1955. The play is considered to be the most significant in Australian theatre history, and a "turning point", openly and authentically portraying distinctly Australian life and characters. It was one of the first truly naturalistic "Australian" theatre productions. It was originally published by Angus & Robertson, before

Every year Roo brings Olive a kewpie doll, and Olive arranges them throughout the living room. She sees them as a symbol of Roo's love for her. For the seventeenth summer, Olive invites her coworker Pearl to take Nancy 's place. Olive laments Nancy's absence regularly and also speaks disparagingly about marriage in general.
